

POLITICAL FIGHT ON IN BROOKLYN

Rival Ambitions of Calder and Travis Stir Republican Camp.

FORMER EAGER TO RUN FOR U. S. SENATORSHIP

Controller Seeks Renomination if Whitman Stays in Race for Governor.

"If the organization wants William C. Calder for United States Senator, of course I am for him." This cryptic statement from State Controller Travis describes more than anything else the feeling which the rival political ambitions of Mr. Travis and Mr. Calder have engendered in Republican circles in Brooklyn.

Mr. Calder wants to be the Republican candidate for United States Senator next fall. The former Representative has been going from one part of the state to the other telling Republicans all about it. Mr. Travis wants to be re-nominated for State Controller. He did have aspirations to be the Republican candidate for Governor, but Governor Whitman told him he was a candidate for renomination, and Mr. Travis told the Governor he was for him.

From a patronage point of view the State Controller's office is the most powerful in the state, the plums at the disposal of Mr. Travis being greater even than those at the disposal of the Governor. Consequently, there may be some objections from influential Republicans next fall to New York City running away with the candidates for United States Senator, Governor and State Controller.

It may be that some one has got to be sacrificed, and Mr. Travis has made a firm resolution that it is not going to be he. Then there is the remote possibility that Governor Whitman might become the Republican candidate for Vice-President, and the State Controller wants to be in a position if this should happen to get into the race for Governor again. Of course, from an orthodox political point of view, it would be impossible to have the candidates for United States Senator and Governor come from Brooklyn. As a result, Brooklyn Republicans are all stirred up over the situation.

The clash between the rival political ambitions of Mr. Travis and Mr. Calder dates back to November, when Controller Bridge, District Attorney Kracke, Bridge Commissioner Kracke and Mr. Calder held a conference, at which it was decided that Mr. Calder's ambitions to become United States Senator should come first. An emissary was dispatched to the State Controller with the information that the conference would be pleased to have him join with them in their plans. But Mr. Travis couldn't see things that way.

As a result there has been a line-up, with Mr. Travis and Jacob Livingston, Republican leaders in Kings, on one side, and the Prendergast-Kracke-Kracke combination on the other. The Travis-Livingston men claim to control four-fifths of the county committee.

The effect of the situation on the rival aspirations of Mr. Travis and Mr. Calder is awaited with considerable interest in Brooklyn. It looks as though the conflict will cost Bridge Commissioner Kracke a place on the Public Service Commission. The State Controller had a long conference with Governor Whitman last week, reports of which indicate that they have patched up their differences and will now be found working together. It is expected that Mr. Travis will oppose the selection of Mr. Kracke as Public Service Commissioner.

Recluse Burns, Gripping Cash.

Winsted, Conn., Jan. 15.—Clutching $100 in one hand and her bank book in the other, Mrs. Mary A. Roe, an aged recluse, was found dead after a fire in her home at Rockville last night. The fire is supposed to have started from an overheated stove. Mrs. Roe was suffocated.

URGE SUBSTITUTE FILM LAW

Picture Men Want Objectionable Ones Prohibited from Mails. Washington, Jan. 15.—A law to prohibit transportation of objectionable motion picture films through the mails was suggested by film manufacturers at a hearing before the House Education Committee today as a substitute for the pending Hughes-Smith bill for Federal censorship of pictures. The manufacturers contended that the censorship machinery proposed in the bill was so cumbersome that it would halt the industry for months. A Cyrus Townsend Brady, of Kansas City; Bainbridge Colby, of New York, and Mary Gray Peck, of New York, spoke against the Hughes-Smith bill, and Mrs. John N. Culbertson, representing several women's organizations, made a statement in favor of it. The hearings will continue next week.

WANTS MORE MIDSHIPMEN

Daniels Asks Congress to Help Increase Corps at Academy. Washington, Jan. 15.—Immediate action by Congress to authorize an increase in the corps of midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy, Secretary Daniels in a letter to Chairman Padgett of the House Naval Committee, the letter states that if the full number of vacancies be made available for appointments by members of Congress before March the Academy will be able to handle a much larger class next year.

The shortage of officers available for fleet duty, pointed out by Admiral Fletcher's report, has been remedied largely, it is said, but transfer of officers to active vessels has left vacancies elsewhere. The question of providing officers for these vacancies and new ships to be commissioned in the next two or three years is one of serious concern.

WAR RELIEF. PREY FOR BOGUS AGENTS

National Committee Issues Warning on Arrest of Syrians in Canada.

Bogus solicitors for the National Committee for Syrian and Armenian Relief are appearing in different parts of the country, it was announced at a meeting yesterday afternoon at 70 Fifth Avenue, the committee's headquarters. From Canada came news of the arrest of several Syrians who had collected thousands of dollars, not a meeting of which had been sent to the needy people for whom it was intended.

In view of these facts, the following warning was issued: "The National Committee, which is the only official committee for Armenian and Syrian relief in this country, has adopted the rule of making banks its local agents, and takes this opportunity to warn against individual collectors without proper references. The Vacation War Relief Committee, of which Miss Anne Morgan is chairman, received between January 6 and 11 $14,000 for garments, hospital supplies and drugs. Added to contributions previously acknowledged, the total is $101,289.42."

Mrs. Ethelbert Nevin, chairman of the American Fund for the French Wounded, reports receipts of $746.92 for the same period and a total of $167,710.47.

Among the recent contributions that have helped bring $214,704.81 to the Polish Victims' Relief Fund, the offices of which are in the Arcadian Building, are: Lucie Stern, $100; J. S. Watson, $100; Miss Mary Archer, $115; M. M. Emery, $500; Roland R. Conklin, $100; Cleveland Dodge, $200.

Additional gifts of $100 and more to the American Jewish Relief Committee's fund, which now totals $1,145,217.06, are announced as follows: Jacob Ruppert, $500; Woodbine Jewish Relief Committee, $100; Miller & Bonine, $100; Waco Committee, $150; Mrs. Herman H. Rosenbaum, $100; Bonner Manufacturing Company, $100; cash received by M. S. Van Wazer, $265; S. Kaplan & Co., $100; Rosenberg & Daniel, $100; Charles Adler's Sons, $100; Eichberg & Co., $250; Bruhl Bros. Co., $100; Arthur Lorsch, $250; Zach A. Oppenheimer, $100.

The Serbian Relief Committee, 70 Fifth Avenue, whose funds now total $194,550.55, acknowledges $166.66 from L. W. James and $122.19 from the Central Presbyterian Church, Montclair, N. J.

R. M. Stuart Wortley, treasurer of the American branch of the Prince of Wales's National Relief Fund, 25 Broad Street, has announced that the total contributions to January 14 were $148,108.04.

BAKER CORNELL'S FAIRY GODFATHER

Trustees at Dinner Drink to Banker, Giver of Tower and Dormitories.

C. M. SCHWAB, "BABY MEMBER," MAKES BOW

President Schurman Calls Military Training at University Bulwark of Defence.

Cornell learned for the first time yesterday that George F. Baker gave the Tower and two dormitories that started the big group planned for the campus. This revelation was made at the annual luncheon given by George C. Holdt, chairman of the board, at the Waldorf-Astoria in honor of the trustees of Cornell University.

Mr. Baker, having learned that about $50,000 was needed to add to the $300,000 he had given last year, placed on the table at the trustees' meeting another check for $50,000. Charles M. Schwab, elected to the board of trustees last fall, made his first speech before the board as its "baby member," and later addressed the gathering at luncheon.

The meeting was devoted mainly to a consideration of the plans for the university's semi-centennial celebration in 1918. The date was fixed as October 7, the anniversary of the founding of the institution. The commemorative exercises will begin on October 6 and continue three days. The state and national governments will take part, as will other American universities and should the war end by that time, European institutions of learning. Fifteen thousand Cornell graduates who are qualified to become volunteer army officers, will take part in a military review on the campus. A statue of Ezra Cornell, the founder, will be unveiled by Dr. Andrew D. White, first president of the university. The work of getting together an endowment fund of at least $3,000,000 to be ready for the celebration was started.

Drills Win Praise. About thirty-five trustees were present at the luncheon, the ten others having been kept away by grip. Dr. White, who illness prevented his attendance, at the suggestion of Lieutenant Governor Schoonmaker. Among the 150 guests were President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell, George F. Baker, Charles M. Schwab, George W. Wick, Graham, Justices Willard, Bartlett, Frank H. Hiseock, John Ford, Clarence J. Shearn and Cuthbert W. Pound, Colonel Henry W. Sackett, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Lippis, John B. Schiff, Charles D. Norton, Louis Marshall, R. H. Treman, Marquis de Frezenoy, Dr. Robert T. Morris, Henry R. Lohmeier, Chester S. Lord, John B. Dennis, George C. Boldt, Jr., J. N. Carlisle, H. B. Westinghouse, J. E. White, Professor Franklin Matthews, Herbert B. Swope, Emerson McMillin, William J. Tufts, J. G. Schmidlapp, Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Moland, Ira A. Place, Haley Fiske, Francis S. Butcher, Dr. John A. Schleicher, Mrs. John W. Hornor, Mrs. Mary Bradstreet Hoffman, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Scheeling and Willard D. Straight.

In his address of welcome Mr. Holdt paid tribute to the giver of the Tower and two dormitories, and asked his guests to drink the health of "George F. Baker, of Baker Court, Ithaca, N. Y." He reported that two of the first buildings of the dormitory group were already occupied, and that the other two would shortly be finished.

Talking on the military side of Cornell, President Schurman said Cornell had always paid attention to military training and now had a fine $300,000 armory, given by the state. "We require all freshmen and sophomores to take military drill," he said. "It is our experience that drilling makes for accuracy, promptness and obedience, thus solving the question of the maintenance of discipline."

$5,000,000 CAPITAL FOR WORLD FILMS

Reorganization in the Motion Picture Field Includes Equitable Corporation.

A statement published in The Tribune yesterday to the effect that the Equitable Film Corporation has swallowed the World Film Corporation proves to have been founded upon misinformation supplied to this and to other papers. The reverse is the truth. Reorganization has resulted in a new World Film Corporation being born with a capitalization of $5,000,000, of which sum $1,500,000 was paid in cash on Friday afternoon at a meeting attended by directors of the World and Equitable films and of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., the financial backers of the new corporation.

Equitable stock will be absorbed through exchange for new World stock and the entire Equitable plants and assets will be taken over by the World. The directors of the World Film Corporation subscribed to $500,000 of new stock, the balance being taken by banking interests. At the meeting it was announced that World Film, despite all rumors to the contrary, is in a prosperous year, its net earnings being 12 per cent on the outstanding stock.

Lewis J. Selznick and Britton N. Rush, the former vice-president of the World and the latter its treasurer, handed in their resignations, and both were accepted. The new general manager has not been appointed as yet, but negotiations with a man well known in film circles are now under way. It is understood that Mr. Selznick may be continued in the sales end of the reorganized company, but this has not been settled definitely. World and Equitable affairs have been the subject of continuous adverse rumors for more than a year, and only recently it was alleged that World Film was on the verge of disruption. It was known that a powerful clique of financiers were opposed to Selznick, and that if the company continued its life he would be forced to resign. George B. Cox, the Cincinnati millionaire, and identified with the part theatrical interests, is president of World Film Corporation; Joseph L. Rhinock is vice-president. A new treasurer has not yet been chosen. Lee Shubert and Jules E. Brulout are among the directors. Allied with the corporation are William A. Brady, the Shuberts, Frohman Amusement Com-

NUN MISSING FROM CONVENT

Shawl Found on Bank of Stream Last Trace of Sister. (By Telegraph to The Tribune.) Philadelphia, Jan. 15.—A nun registered as Sister Vincent, disappeared strangely eleven days ago from the convent of St. Joseph Villa, two miles outside of Cheltenham, and no trace of her has been found by the police of this city and all surrounding towns. The search for the nun has been progressing under considerable secrecy. Her shawl was found on the bank of Tacony Creek, near the convent, and to-day the creek was dragged and dynamited, but without result. The missing woman was formerly a Miss Haggerty, of Philadelphia. She is described as being twenty-three years old and unusually pretty.

Charles D. McAvay, of Norristown, attorney for the sisters, said to-day: "There need be no secrecy about this case and there really is none, except that a community of religious persons wish to avoid the publishing of sensational stories. The young woman had been extremely ill for a considerable time. She is regarded as being unbalanced mentally and is missing. We do not know where she is."

That is the record of William J. Hodge, doorkeeper of the law department of the Corporation Counsel's office, who was presented yesterday with a gold watch in commemoration of his long term of service. Corporation Counsel Lamar Hardy made a brief speech of congratulation, while the employees of the office, each of whom had a share in the gift, gathered around the old man. Hodge, in a short talk, thanked his associates. Then he went back to his work.

"I'm feeling fine," declared the venerable servant of Manhattan yesterday.

HAS SERVED CITY FOR FIFTY YEARS

W. J. Hodge Receives Tribute from Corporation Counsel's Staff.

"Fifty years on the job and never a complaint!"

That is the record of William J. Hodge, doorkeeper of the law department of the Corporation Counsel's office, who was presented yesterday with a gold watch in commemoration of his long term of service. Corporation Counsel Lamar Hardy made a brief speech of congratulation, while the employees of the office, each of whom had a share in the gift, gathered around the old man. Hodge, in a short talk, thanked his associates. Then he went back to his work.

"I'm feeling fine," declared the venerable servant of Manhattan yesterday.

"It does not seem as though I had been here ten years. I was eligible for a pension twenty years ago, but I don't want it as long as I do not need it." It was on January 16, 1866, that a thin, sixteen-year-old Irish lad entered the building, which still stands at 82 Nassau Street, where the Corporation Counsel was located. Richard O'Gorman was the incumbent of the office, and Andrew T. Campbell, chief clerk of the department, who served the Corporation Counsel's office fifty-six years continuously, ushered the youngster into his superior's presence.

"My name is William Hodge," said the boy, "and I want to go to work."

"When would you like to begin?" inquired O'Gorman.

"Now," said the boy. Thereupon he entered into the duties of office boy and became an employee of the city office of which he is now the senior member in length of service.

Before a visitor may enter the inner offices on the seventeenth floor of the Municipal Building he must satisfy Hodge, the guardian of the gate, that his business is worthy of his admittance.

"I have served under seventeen Corporation Counsels," said Hodge yesterday. "They began with O'Gorman and ran right through to Mr. Lamar Hardy. I have been here under Independents, Tammany Hall Democrats, Republicans and the present administration, whatever that is."

For thirty-five years Hodge was a messenger, delivering as many as ten thousand documents in a quarter year, he said yesterday. He has charge of the messenger force, the first grade clerks and the time records. In the last dozen years Hodge has been confronted by many cranks who approach the outer gates to the Corporation Counsel's office, but he handles them as skillfully as he did the woman who for years called regularly once each month to collect the rent for the City Hall. Hodge placated her so skillfully that she always went away pleased, although minus the rent from Father Knickerbocker.

"I am proud of my record," said the old man yesterday, "for there has never been a complaint against me."

Hodge is the father of two daughters and a son, all married. He lives at 1351 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, and when not working likes best to go fishing.

WHITMAN AT HEBREW BALL

Attends Home for Aged Fete in Brooklyn.

Governor Whitman was the guest of honor last night at the entertainment and ball of the Brooklyn Hebrew Home for the Aged in the 12th Regiment Armory. The Governor spoke from the balcony of the big drill room.

The receipts, which were more than $12,000, wiped out the $8,000 mortgage on the home, and gave a nucleus for a fund to build an annex, which it is planned to open next fall as a home for chronic invalids.

BRITISH SEIZED 1,600 BAGS OF MAIL FOR U. S.

Nieuw Amsterdam Was Detained Six Days at Falmouth.

The Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam, from Rotterdam, via Falmouth, reached Hoboken last night, after having been held up six days at Falmouth by the British authorities. British agents examined all the passengers, and took from the boat one man who, they said, was a British subject attempting to escape compulsory military service.

A thorough examination was made of the mail, and 1,600 bags of mail from Austria and Germany, destined for the United States, were seized on the charge that the mail contained German books intended to spread German propaganda in the United States. Ethelbert Watts, the United States Consul General at Brussels, was among the passengers. Speaking of conditions under German rule in Belgium, he said:

"Everything is quiet and orderly at Brussels. There is no starvation and no great shortage of food, thanks to the efficiency and activity of the American Relief Commission."

Two Chinese children, Leopoldine, four, and Herrn Long, six, were among the second cabin passengers. They are going to visit their father, an actor in Chicago.
